CLUB RULES.

(1) Obey your Captain, who has the authority & responsibility of controlling the Club, from the moment it assembles to the dispersal after a run.

(2) When assembling in the street before a run, help to maintain order & preserve a reasonable state of quietness.

(3) Club formation [which is two abreast must be kept to whilst riding unless there is sufficient reason for breaking same, or the Captain's order be given.

(4) Make yourself familiar with the correct traffic signals, so that if you are in the lead, or rear of a group, you can give them correctly, & in ample time for them to be seen by members of your own party, or approaching vehicles.

(5) Obey all traffic signals & road signs, whether riding or wheeling your cycle, & give way to all pedestrians at crossings not controlled by police or traffic signals.

(6) Warnings by ringing bells, must only be sounded when absolutely necessary by the leading riders of a group only.

(7) The 'inside' rider must keep as near to the left as is practicable, unless about to overtake, or turn to the right.

(8) Give proper attention to the condition of your cycle, remember the whole Club may be delayed by one member with a 'patched up' cycle, or an uncomfortable riding position.

(9) Do not mistake a Club run for a training spin; keep with the party until the conclusion of the run, unless you have sufficient reason for not doing so, in which case first advise the captain.

(10) Treat other road users, as you would have them treat you; be courteous, set a good example of road sense, & be proud of being a Club cyclist.

(11) Apply these rules to your every day cycling, & take the good advice they contain.
